

Portugal's Premier Pledges His Honor To Catch Assassins

LISBON, Jan. 3.—(Associated Press Mail)—Cunha Leal, the new Premier of Portugal who assumed office about the middle of December has vowed that he will restore public order in the country and pledged his honor to bring to justice the assassins of former Premier Granjo and several other statesmen murdered in the October revolution.

He is taking energetic measures to keep these revolutionary elements in control. Several military and naval officers have been sent from Lisbon to the provinces in punishment for taking part in political meetings of civilians.

The new Premier has appointed as Civilian Governor of Lisbon Lieutenant Agatao Lanca, a naval officer who had declared that he would not wear his uniform again until justice had been done to the assassins of Granjo.

Premier Leal had made a similar vow shortly after the assassinations. His accession to power was brought about within 24 hours after the previous ministry had fallen and was attended by the dramatic incidents. The air was thick with rumors of approaching revolutionary events. A cabinet of the extremist elements already had been formed and was ready to leap into power. The newspapers state that his choice as premier saved the country from a civil war.

When it became known that Leal was forming a cabinet all the extremist elements concerned in the revolution in October last, including soldiers, sailors, civil revolutionaries and some officers met and sent emissaries to the President warning him that they would not accept Leal's cabinet and demanding that Mesquita de Carvalho be made premier. When they learned that they were too late furious speeches and grave threats were delivered at a revolutionary club and promises were made that the revolutionary program would be carried out at whatever cost.

On assuming power, Premier Leal declared that he would "squash all agitators and those who commit fresh crimes as if they were venomous reptiles." He promised that all his efforts would be directed to enforce order and lessen the grave economical and financial situation in Portugal. He declared that the men who had urged him to accept the office feared that the continuation of disorder in Portugal would bring about foreign intervention. The Premier said he realized that his life was endangered but to refuse to accept the office would have been an act of cowardice.

Bulgaria Ready to Welcome American Capital, Enterprise

VARNA, Bulgaria, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press Mail)—The Bulgarian government invites Americans to come to Bulgaria to build shipyards, grain elevators and harbor improvements at Varna on the Black Sea and to establish industrial enterprises at other points.

The government believes that Russia before many years will emerge from her present state of disorganization and that she will require many ships which could be conveniently built at Varna.

Alexander Radoloff, Bulgarian Minister of the Interior, told the correspondent one of the greatest opportunities for enterprising Americans existed in the canning, sugar, fishing, forest and mining industries. He said huge profits awaited Americans who might establish canning factories for the enormous quantities of fish that swarmed the Black Sea, the Danube and other rivers, and for the packing of compressed beef, fruits and vegetables in which the country was so rich. There was not a single canning industry in the state, he declared.

"We have enormous forest areas where it will be necessary only to build narrow-gauge railways to produce some of the finest timber and paper-pulp in the world," said M. Radoloff. "We are prepared to give responsible Americans concessions in these regions. We feel the United States knows us better than any other foreign power. That's the reason we want its business men, capitalists and engineers to help us develop our natural resources."

Movies Reform Wave Hits Australia and Figures Are Sought

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Jan. 3.—(Associated Press Mail)—Many reforms regarding the exhibition of motion pictures, with special regard to the attendance of children at the performances, were recommended today in an official report by the Victorian Council of Education. One of the recommendations proposed the prohibition of any picture encouraging disloyalty.

The total attendance at the 808 picture theaters in Australia for the year ending June 30, 1920 was 66,000,000, out of a total attendance of 94,000,000 at all amusements, the report stated. During the current year the record showed an average attendance of 20,000,000 weekly at film theaters. Australia has a picture show for every 6250 of population, the United States has one for every 6000 and Great Britain has one for every 5800, the report said.

Examination of 14 Melbourne schools showed that 45 percent of the children attended film exhibitions more than once a week, 11 percent attended twice a week and 60 percent went once or oftener a week. Of these, 20 percent reached home after the rest of the family had retired, 37 percent attending at night while 40 percent attended in the afternoon, with 23 percent attending both day and night. The committee expressed the opinion that no child under 15 years of age should be allowed to attend after 6:30 p. m., on any school day.

Even more drastic action has been proposed in New South Wales where a district magistrate, dealing with a number of youthful defendants, was requested by the prosecutor, a representative of the school department and by the Inspector of the State Children's Relief Department, to order that the offenders should be prevented from attending picture shows for some time. The prosecutor contended that attendance at picture theaters undoubtedly had had a bad influence upon the children. The court did not accede to the request, pointing out that he could not impose such sentence legally.

SOFIA, Jan. 10.—(Associated Press Mail)—These are hard times for the young King Boris of Bulgaria who has been obliged to sell some of the animals in his private zoo and a lot of palms, vines and flowers in the gardens of his palace at Varna. "Bulgaria is poor and so am I," said the King to the correspondent. Besides, I am too busy trying to re-establish my country in the good opinion of men and nations to give any time to my gardens and menagerie. "I am now using the palace gardens to plant potatoes instead of flowers. In these lean and dark days, it is largely a question of bread with us, not beauty."

So To Serve That We May Continue to Serve

Wallace M. Alexander, president of Alexander & Baldwin and also of the San Francisco chamber of commerce, urges the ownership of a home by everyone who can possibly arrange for it, in a signed article in a recent issue of the San Francisco Journal, as follows:

By WALLACE M. ALEXANDER
President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce

A home owner has hammered a stake into the earth and tied his heartstrings to it. He has a permanent interest in his home town. His pride in his own accomplishment is transplanted to civic pride in his community. By building a home he has helped his city to grow and prosper.

He knows that every plan through which the welfare of his city is advanced, making it more attractive to investigators and other home-builders, substantially enhances the value of his own holding, be it small or large. He works with his neighbors, therefore, to make his city sanitary, to give it the best educational facilities, and to create, along with utilitarian improvements, those things that add to the beauty of the city and the contentment of life.

The habit of thrift acquired during the period in which a man has forced himself to save in order to buy a home stays with him in his other business activities. Logically he becomes a savings bank depositor and a holder of a life insurance policy.

In most cases a man in purchasing a home is for the first time exercising business judgment. By the act of purchasing a home he becomes in fact a businessman, doing a good stroke of business for himself and his family. At the same time he is creating business for the community in which he builds his home.

It has been a matter of statistical record for many years that the city of home owners is less adversely affected by hard times and is more prosperous in good times than a city of landlords and tenants. The reason for this, of course, is that the home owner is never broke. In emergency he may borrow. Banks consider him a better risk than a tenant.

The home owner is always a loyal citizen. He cannot be anything else. He is bound to work for the good of his community as a whole, because he knows that he and his family will directly benefit by his endeavor.
